Atomic Blast Tests Effect On Mice, Monkeys

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The fourth—and biggest—of this year's atomic blasts went off in the desert northwest of here today. Seven minutes later, its sound wave hit Las Vegas with a resounding crack.

It was one of the sharpest jolts since the early days of nuclear experimenting, when shock waves still had enough force, after racing 75 miles, to break a few windows here.

Today's explosion was designed to test, among other things, radiation effects on mice and monkeys. The familiar white cloud boiled up quickly, and was visible here despite a ground haze within three minutes. Its height led seasoned observers to believe that today's device—as the Atomic Energy Commission calls the weapons it tests—was dropped from a plane.

Previous blasts this season have been set off from a 300-foot steel towers, and have been barely felt this far away.

Today's, first of the spring series triggered in daylight, went off at 10:30 a. m. EST.

Observers noted many planes in the air before the flash. The Air Force has said it might have as many as 74 craft aloft at one time.

The shock wave—with more strength than noted here yet this spring—was felt clearly.

145,000 POWs Are Pawns In Kremlin-Led Peace Offensive

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON (AP)—More than 145,000 prisoners in the Korean War—3,198 of them Americans—were the pawns today in what appeared to be a giant new peace offensive directed from the Kremlin.

It isn't particularly surprising in the light of past events. Early in the Korean War, the Chinese Communists disclosed they placed a high political and propaganda value on their Allied prisoners.

It remains to be seen whether the Reds will try again—at the truce talks which resumed today at Panmunjom—to exploit the captives they hold.

The first indication of their attitude came in November, 1950, shortly after the Chinese entered the war to support the North Korean Army shattered by the United Nations forces of Gen. Douglas MacArthur. The North Koreans had used their prisoners cruelly. Americans who fell into their hands generally were treated brutally. The old rules for humane treatment of prisoners were ignored. Many Americans were massacred.

There was nothing phony about those massacre reports out of Korea. I saw massacre victims myself near the little town of Wusunchon in North Korea. Survivors who crawled out of the hills told us the story of what had happened.

A prisoner-of-war train stopped in a lonely tunnel at dusk... Red guards told the Americans they were to be given food... The prisoners walked into the fields and sat huddled in little groups waiting for their food... And the guards opened fire without warning, killing 68.

Fire Guts Barn Near Leetonia

Damage To Structure, Contents Is $35,000

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a large, two-story barn at 11:30 a.m. Sunday on the farm of Bernard Smith on Grafton Rd., three miles southwest of Leetonia.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were attending Easter services at the Christian Church in Lisbon at the time. A neighbor, Roy Kridler, who with his family was returning from Sunday School at Columbiana, discovered the fire and notified Mrs. Smith's father, Ewing Holloway, who was attending services at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Leetonia.

Mr. Kridler opened a door on the south side of the barn leading to the pasture and chased 20 pigs to safety before the barn collapsed. Two brood sows with 20 little pigs were burned in the fire, together with a lime spreader, grain drill, cultivator, grain grinder and other farm machinery, seed potatoes and seed oats.

A new picker and a wagon belonging to Mr. Smith's brother, Paul, was also destroyed, together with hay belonging to Mr. Smith's father, George.

A carload of fertilizer was on the barn floor but Mr. Smith said this could still be used.

Damage is estimated between $30,000 and $35,000 and is partially covered by insurance.

The Leetonia volunteer fire department was called and prevented the fire from spreading to adjoining buildings.

Sheriff Kills 2 Gunmen In Stolen Auto

HOT SULPHUR SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Oklahoma and Texas authorities joined today in efforts to identify two gunmen slain by a kidnaped sheriff as they tried to run a roadblock in his commandeered car.

Sheriff Chauncey Van Pelt, drawing a hidden weapon at first chance, shot the two Saturday to end a running gun battle. It was waged in a blinding snowstorm near Hot Sulphur Springs, 95 miles northwest of Denver.

Both boasted they were wanted for murder in Oklahoma, the veteran 44-year-old peace officer related. Van Pelt said the youthful pair seized his car and forced him into the back seat at gun point as he investigated a report their automobile had slid into a ditch five miles east of here. He said the auto was stolen the night before at Medicine Bow, Wyo.

Both were shot in the head as the sheriff, diverting their attention with a shouted warning about the roadblock ahead, snatched his 32 special automatic from inside a jacket. Then he seized the wheel, climbed into the front seat and braked the racing car to a halt just short of the roadblock.

Van Pelt said the dead men carried papers belonging to Harold Dean Glass, 21, of Perry, Okla., and Roy Willard Kane, 23, of Pecos, Tex., but there were indications some of the papers were not their own.

John Kirk Victim Of Rt. 30 Crash; Other Motorist Being Held

A Homeworth man out for a Sunday drive with his family was killed and his wife and daughter were among six persons injured in weekend traffic accidents in the Salem district.

The victim was John Kirk, 35, of Homeworth, traffic manager for the Babcock-Wilcox Co. at Alliance, who died instantly when his car was struck by another vehicle on Route 30, three-quarters of a mile west of Kensington, Sunday at 3:30 p.m.

Other Driver Held Driver of the other car, John Korak, 32, of Mansfield, is being held by Coroner E. R. Sturgis. Charged by Salem state highway patrolmen with reckless driving, Korak was fined $50 and costs by Mayor Wilbur Warren at Lisbon.

JoAnne Kirk, 34, wife of John Kirk sustained concussions, fractured ribs and shoulders and is in poor condition at the Central Clinic.

Their two-year old daughter Bonnie received body abrasions and a fractured left leg and is in fair condition, according to Central Clinic reports.

John Korak suffered lacerations of the right leg and abrasions of the body.

Dean Gardner, 29, of Salt Lake City, a passenger in Korak's car, sustained two broken legs and abrasions of the body. He is in poor condition at the Central Clinic.

William Carl May, 34, Alliance suffered lacerations of the chin, had front teeth knocked out, received fractured ribs and a possible fractured right wrist. He is in fair condition at Salem City Hospital.

State patrolmen said the collision occurred when Korak failed to pass a string of motorcycles on a curve and swung back into the line of traffic, hitting the last motorcycle of the line operated by William Carl May.

The impact threw May from his motorcycle into an embankment and Korak, who lost control of his car, bolted left into the approaching car driven by John Kirk.

Korak's car hit the left door of Kirk's car. Both cars slid over the embankment.

Jo Anne, Kirk's wife and their daughter Bonnie were thrown out of the car, highway patrolmen said. Kirk's body was taken to Maple Funeral Home at Dover.

Highway Patrolmen said Korak was arrested for unsafe operation.

In another accident, highway patrolmen said that a car driven by John V. Homan, 30, of Columbiana, crashed into a steel utility pole when he failed to make a curve on Route 34, just west of Franklin Square, Saturday at 7:15 p.m.

A passenger in Homan's car, Cecil Roush, 42, of Youngstown, sustained lacerations of the face, forehead, and neck.

He was treated at Salem City Hospital and released.

The third accident over the weekend occurred when a car driven by Roy F. Fryan, 36, of Alliance hit the rear of a car operated by Robert Miskimins, 16, of RD 4, Salem, on Route 62, two and four-fifths miles east of Alliance, Sunday at 12:50 a.m.

Fryan was arrested for speeding said highway patrolmen.

Mr. Kirk resided in the Homeworth vicinity for 12 years, moving there from Salineville where he was born.

He was a graduate of Salineville High School and was graduated

Winona Youth Returns Money Lisbon Man Lost

The Air Force will gain an honest airman this week when Ken Rogers, 18, of Winona leaves for the service. Rogers proved his honesty Easter afternoon when he returned $87, lost in Salem, to Bob James of 106 S. Beaver St., Lisbon.

James missed the money Thursday noon after he apparently dropped it while trying to put it in his watch pocket. It was his first pay from the Salem Stamping and Manufacturing Co.

He ran a front page want ad in the Salem News Saturday which Rogers saw, leading to the return of the cash.

County Workers To Get Wage Hikes In Budget For 1953

Columbiana County Commissioners announced today they have granted a $10 per month salary increase for county employees following the adoption of the 1953 budget, calling for $752, $772, or $772, 089 in the general fund.

The increases are for the nine remaining months of the year and came after office holders had requested a 10 per cent cost-of-living increase for their employees.

At the same time commissioners granted a five cent per hourly increase for county highway workers. They had requested a 30 cent an hour boost and a 44-hour week. They now work 48 hours.

Commissioners said the five cent increase brings a prevailing rate of pay in the county up to the average of adjoining counties.

The budget was adopted to meet the estimated resources available after commissioners were faced with general fund requests for more than $825,000.

The total amount of the 1953 budget, including funds from sources such as gasoline and motor vehicle taxes, is $2,053,165 as compared to last year's total of $1,810,233. Last year's general fund budget was $753,700.

The following is a breakdown on the amounts to be received by the various offices:

The amounts received last year are in parentheses.

General fund — commissioners, $31,344 ($29,511); auditor, $67,364 ($63,824); treasurer, $32,984 ($31,917); prosecuting attorney, $13,612 ($18,435); board of revisions ($30,100); examiners, $10,000 ($10,000); attorney fees for civil cases, $100 ($100).

Board of appeals, $900 ($200); common pleas court, $46,515 ($42,560); juvenile court, $10,200 ($9,680); probate court, $39,955 ($30,356); clerk of courts, $35,206 ($33,507); coroner, $4,203 ($2,926); police and municipal courts, $4,740 ($3,200); board of elections, $48,315 ($50,571); buildings and grounds, $38,540 ($61,540); sheriff, $50,791 ($48,180); recorder, $23,131 ($19,675); humane officer, $900 ($800); agriculture, $29,400 ($28,240); tuberculosis hospital, $124,000.

Salem Churches Jammed For Easter Services On Sunday

"A spiritual awakening" is the way Salem ministers describe the almost unprecedented attendance which marked Holy Week and Easter Sunday in churches of all denominations here.

Cantatas in the Baptist and Presbyterian Churches added to the over-all total in both churches but the attendance in the Baptist Church was described by the pastor, Rev. R. J. Hunter, as one of the largest in the history of the church.

Rev. A. Laten Carter brought the Easter communion meditation to the largest Presbyterian congregation to attend Maundy Thursday services and preached at two crowded services Sunday morning.

The Methodist Church was host to youth from Presbyterian, Baptist, and Christian Churches at a sunrise service, and two worship services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. C. Clare Davis before the largest congregation in the history of the Methodist Church.

Rev. E. S. Scott, pastor of the Christian Church, was in charge of two services Sunday and the attendance was said to equal any Easter Sunday so far.

Members of the Friends Church broke previous records of attendance, according to the pastor, Rev. Harold Winn.

Members of St. Paul parish flocked to all masses during Holy Week and Rev. Fr. Richard Gaffney said that both children and adults filled the church to standing room at four masses Easter Sunday.

Sunday School attendance records were broken in the Church of the Nazarene and the church attendance included the reception of

Wounded Trade Could Smooth Way To Truce

Reds Reported "Very Objective;" Exchange Asked In Seven Days

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—United Nations liaison officers reported "distinct progress" with "very objective" Reds today in their first meeting to work out a quick exchange of sick and wounded prisoners of war.

If a trade goes smoothly it could pave the way for an armistice in Korea.

The U. N. liaison group handed their Communist opposite numbers at the 48-minute session today a nine-point program that, among other things, called for exchange to begin within seven days after agreement on procedure.

The U. N. also asked the Reds for the number of Allied prisoners they are willing to return. The Reds said they would supply the number but they took no action immediately on the U. N. nine-point plan.

To Meet Again The officers will meet at Panmunjom again tomorrow at 11 a.m. (9 p.m. Monday EST).

Rear Adm. John C. Daniel, chief U. N. liaison officer, said of today's meeting:

"The attitude of the Communists was very objective. I'd say distinct progress was made in that we met and exchanged views. I feel that we have made progress."

But the Reds raised two points that were not fully explained.

North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho said that before the Reds supplied the number of Allied POWs to be returned both sides "must establish the category of prisoners who may be exchanged before an armistice." U. N. officers said he did not explain what he meant.

The Reds also indicated they may want some prisoners returned to their homeland and some sent to neutral countries. There was no elaboration on that.

The Allies have assumed that all disabled prisoners would be sent back to their own countries as a matter of course—providing the prisoners themselves wanted it that way.

While Daniel said distinct progress was made he would not say the talks were off to a good start.

"Our attitude," he said, "is to take the Communists in good faith, and this liaison group will continue to do that until we have reason to the contrary, and so far no reason has arisen."

In brief, the nine points he proposed govern an exchange:

1. Repatriation of sick and wounded captured personnel of both sides at Panmunjom.

2. The exchange would begin within seven days after the procedure is agreed upon.

3. The U. N. would deliver 500 captured personnel daily at Panmunjom until the exchange is completed.

4. The captured personnel to be exchanged would be divided into groups of 25 each, registered by nationality, name, rank and serial number.

5. A representative of the receiving side would sign a receipt for each group accepted.

6. Motor and rail convoys would be guaranteed freedom from air attacks while moving toward Panmunjom.

Members of the Friends Church broke previous records of attendance, according to the pastor, Rev. Harold Winn.

11 Arrested In Painting Thefts

4 Seized In Ohio; Pictures Recovered

CHICAGO (AP)—The FBI today said further arrests "are probable" in connection with the theft of nine religious paintings believed worth a fortune.

Eleven men already have been snared in a tightening FBI net. Six men were arrested in Chicago, four in Ohio and one in Pennsylvania.

None of those held has been specifically charged with the Nov. 12 theft of the paintings from St. Joseph's Pro Cathedral at Bardonia, N.Y. However, the FBI said one of the men in custody actually committed the theft — cutting the paintings from their frames. The man was not identified.

The paintings — including three attributed to old masters — were recovered in Chicago Friday. They included works described as Murillo's "Crowning of the Blessed Virgin," Rubens' "Flaying of St. Bartholomew," and Ven Eyck's "Descent of the Holy Ghost."

The Kentucky church received them as a gift from King Louis Philippe of France, who reigned from 1830-1848, and had visited Bardonia for his health. The FBI said no definite value has been placed on the collection but that it was reported the paintings were valued at close to one million dollars.

Three of the men charged with possessing and concealing stolen goods, are free on bond. They are Norton I. Kretschke, 47, of Chicago, a former assistant U. S. attorney, Gus Manotelli, 52, of New York, steward on a transatlantic liner, and Joseph de Pietro, 49, of Chicago, a deputy bailiff in the narcotics branch of the Cook County Criminal Court.

Kline S. Weatherford, special agent in charge of the FBI's Chicago office, said Manotelli possibly was brought into the picture to smuggle four of the paintings — including the three described as masterpieces — to Europe. The paintings presumably could have been marketed there at higher prices and with less risk than in United States, he said.

The other three men seized in Chicago appear for arraignment before U. S. Commissioner C. S. Bentley Pike today on charges of conspiring to transport stolen goods across state lines. They are William Joseph Russo, 30, and William Leonard Skally, 42, both free on bond pending their appeals from conviction and three year prison sentences as members of a counterfeiting ring, and Joseph Accardi, 28, a bartender.

Others nabbed by the FBI are Charles R. La Camera, 33, a Farrell, Pa., pool room operator once imprisoned in Ohio for manslaughter, arrested at Farrell; Albert Spagnola, 39, seized in Cleveland; Jasper Joseph Aiello, 39, and John Milovich, 41, arrested at Youngstown, O., and John Ralph Lupu, 29, captured in his Warren, O., home.

All are charged with conspiracy in interstate transportation of stolen property and may be brought to Chicago if federal authorities decide to try them here.

Physical Start Of New Life Described By Scientists

CHICAGO (AP)—Seeing the physical start of new human life was described today to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

This start is the merging of the male germ cell, the sperm, with the female germ cell, the ovum or egg.

And the merging seems to occur by chance, this study finds. The sperm must swim into the egg, actually touch it in order to fertilize it and start the union which begins new life. Sperm cells may swim very near, but miss touching.

This chance encounter could have much to do with why you look and act exactly like you do, and not like your brother or sister. For individual sperm cells presumably differ in their genes or hereditary units which they can carry to the egg with their hereditary units.

The merging is described by Dr. Landrum B. Shettles, department of obstetrics and gynecology, College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University, in a report to the federation, opening a five-day meeting here today.

He observed human eggs obtained during necessary operations upon women. Male sperm cells were added later to fluids containing the egg and observed under a microscope.

The sperm cells are not attracted to the egg directly by any biological force, he finds. A sperm, shaped like a tadpole, may swim very near the egg and just miss touching it.

Once having touched the egg, the majority of sperm remained in contact with it, under these test-tube conditions. Hundreds could attach, at right angles, to one egg. The motion of their tails often made the egg rotate in clockwise fashion.

Dr. Shettles told of seeing the heads of the sperm penetrating inside the egg, toward the nucleus or core of the egg. (In these experiments, any fertilized egg would outside the body and keep developing into a baby.)

Another mystery of nature—light from fireflies—was explained by three Johns Hopkins University scientists, Dr. William D. McElroy, Dr. J. Woodland Hastings and Jane Coulombe.

The strange cold light apparently comes from the sudden reaction of five chemicals which are bound up in the bug's tail by a potent enzyme or chemical controller.

Nothing happens while the five chemicals—adenosine triphosphate, luciferin, oxygen, magnesium and luciferase—are held together.

But nerve stimulations set free another chemical, inorganic pyrophosphate, which breaks the bond holding the five chemicals and they then can react to produce the flash of firefly light.

Congressmen Quiz Public On Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP)—If you want to know about taxes, ask the man who pays them.

On that theory, the Joint Senate-House Committee on Taxation sent out questionnaires to every state in the Union. Result, with more still coming in: 13,000 suggestions from 5,000 individuals.

Such bountiful help will boost the congressmen toward their goal of a composite new tax law, to replace what one of them called the present "crazy quilt" structure.

The new legislation, the first general overhaul of tax laws since 1875, should be ready for action early next year.

The questionnaires were in general agreement on one thing: that taxes are too high.

Congressmen Invited To Atomic Test

WASHINGTON (AP)—All 531 members of Congress have been invited to attend one of the tests of atomic weapons currently being conducted in Nevada.

Rep. W. Sterling Cole extended the invitations Saturday in letters suggesting that members might be aided in "evaluating the national defense problems."

Cole, new chairman of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, listed four dates, and said Congress members could select one of the four for a two-day trip to Nevada.

54 Educators Refuse To Tell Probers Of Communist Links

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional investigators searching for Reds in schools and colleges have found 54 educators or former educators who refused to answer questions about possible Communist links.

More than half of them, 29, have been fired or suspended.

In addition, two Harvard University students likewise have declined to answer inquiries about possible Red ties.

The educators have been connected with public and private schools, a teachers union, and some 17 colleges and universities concentrated in the East—particularly in New York City. But the investigators say Communist infiltration of schools has been on a nationwide scale and that evidence of that will pile up as they go along.

The figures given a reporter today cover only persons questioned in open sessions of the Senate internal security subcommittee and the House Un-American Activities Committee.

They embrace men and women who have been on the faculties of Harvard, Boston, Columbia, Rutgers, New York, Temple, Ohio State, Howard, and Oklahoma Universities; Brooklyn, Queens, city and Hunter colleges.

The figures also cover persons who have been associated with public schools in Los Angeles, in Boston, Springfield and Somerville, Mass., and with public and private schools in New York city.

All who have refused to acknowledge or deny Communist party membership or ties have invoked the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution, which says nobody can be required to testify against himself.

Although members of the two committees concede it is no admission of guilt for anyone to seek the protection of the Fifth Amendment, they obviously look with suspicion on an individual who uses it.

Numerous schools, moreover, are dismissing or suspending faculty members who refuse to answer questions about communism. Firing is automatic in New York City under a provision of the City Charter.

The 29 firings or suspensions counted so far by the staffs of the two committees omit several persons who retired or resigned at about the time they were to be summoned as witnesses.

Many of those who invoked the Fifth Amendment were named as Communists or at least acting Communists by witnesses who said they themselves had been fired but broke with the party. A number denied being Communists at the time they were questioned but declined to say whether they had been fired in the past.

In addition to invoking the Fifth Amendment, various witnesses have contended the investigating committees have no right to get into educational affairs and are jeopardizing academic freedom.

Former Communists have taken a different approach to that, citing in many instances with committee members who say they are guarding academic freedom because communism destroys it. The committees insist, furthermore, that they aren't investigating education or educational institutions as such but are turning the glare of publicity on individuals.

Haganah Fighter To Speak At Israel Bond Drive Here

The 1953 sale of State of Israel Bonds will be launched locally Thursday when Hugh McDonald, economist, Air Force veteran and fighter in the Haganah, the Israel Army of Defense, will address a dinner-meeting at the Hotel Lape.

The event is sponsored by the Salem Committee for State of Israel Bonds of which Attorney Loez Caplan is local chairman.

Mr. McDonald, who has studied at Stanford University, the University of Chicago, and Harvard, volunteered for service in the Haganah early in 1947. Aboard the "illegal" refugee ship the Hatikvah, carrying 1,500 European Jews to Israel, he ran the British blockade in the Mediterranean.

Captured by the British on two occasions, Mr. McDonald spent three months in the ill-fated Yotimbu prison camp on the island of Cyprus, and 33 days in Athlit prison near Haifa. He escaped on both occasions with Haganah aid, and served as a demolitionist with Haganah forces until he was wounded in the war of liberation.

A close student of Middle Eastern affairs, Mr. McDonald has campaigned on behalf of Israel throughout the country on radio, television, and from the lecture platform. His book, "Journal of Gentiles," will be

Adenauer, Ike To Talk Today

May Discuss Soviet Peace Drive Effects

NEW YORK (AP)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer arrives today for talks with President Eisenhower which may center on the Soviet "peace" drive's impact on European unity.

James B. Conant, U. S. high commissioner for Germany, flew here yesterday from Bonn. He will attend Adenauer's conferences with the President and Secretary of State Dulles in Washington.

Adenauer, like the President, is a strong supporter of Western European unity.

His support of plans to put 50,000 Germans back into uniform as part of a European army has powerful opposition in his own country and in a nervous France. Of the six national legislatures which must ratify the army treaty, only the German Parliament's lower house has approved it.

It would seem Adenauer also hopes to take home with him some substantial promises to aid him in his political opposition.

Adenauer faces the task of plunging immediately into an election campaign upon his return to Bonn. His Christian Democratic party will be seeking another four-year term.

The problems Adenauer is taking to Washington include:

1. More U. S. economic aid.
2. Military aid.
3. Help in solving the quarrel with France over the rich industrial Saar.
4. What are the new tenants of the Kremlin up to, and what does it mean to a divided Germany?

And a fifth, and probably the knottiest: How can the West Germans be rearmed if France finally balks on the European army plan?

En route here aboard the liner United States, Adenauer already has spoken out on Moscow's growing peace offensive. He said Western statesmen should examine the moves of Premier Georgi Malenkov's government "like detectives."

He added: "There have been positive as well as negative clues to the change in Soviet policy."

New Talks On Merger Of CIO, AFL Begin

WASHINGTON (AP)—New talks to explore the idea of merging the AFL and the CIO open here tomorrow, but prospects for early success don't appear to be bright.

The talks are the first to be held on the subject under the leadership of AFL President George Meany and CIO President Walter Reuther.

Politics: A Fact Of Life

A persistent irony has dogged Dwight Eisenhower ever since it became evident he could have the presidency if he would let politicians get it for him.

The more he tried to place himself above and beyond politics, the more he put himself at the mercy of politicians.

He was like a bride who did not want to be bothered by the grim and gritty details of household budgeting. The facts of life are not put off by distaste for dealing with them.

One of the biggest facts of his life in the White House is politics. It became one of the biggest facts in his life when he said he was a candidate for the White House, and to this day it's uncertain whether or not he really knew how big it became in the weeks just before the Republican national convention.

One of the most attractive campaign aspects of this able and charming man was his freedom from the taint of too much political knowledge. This made it possible for him to ask for and to be given bipartisan support with good grace.

But since election day it has made it possible for him to be advised badly by politicians playing the great game of politics; i.e., rewarding their friends and punishing their opponents.

It has made it possible for him to be whipped by a political grudge fight in Kansas that caused him to lose a Republican national chairman within weeks of the beginning of his administration.

It has made it possible for him to be badgered by a dissident element in his own party determined to remove the scalp of his secretary of state.

It has made it possible for him to be embarrassed on numerous occasions because men he relied on for political advice ground their own axes, instead of his ax.

President Eisenhower has learned many things in his busy lifetime and learned them well. He cannot learn too rapidly or too well that the main business of politicians is rewarding friends and punishing opponents and that this is practiced nowhere more diligently than inside a political party.

Blanket Insult

When a questioner asks a witness before a congressional investigating committee whether or not he ever has been or is now a member of the Communist party, the question is clear and direct.

It can be answered yes or no—or an answer can be refused on grounds it might be incriminating, which is the equivalent of answering yes.

There is no other clear and direct question relating to suspicion of communistic sympathy. The Capital Times of Madison, Wis., asked 241 persons what they thought it meant to be a "Communist" and received 100 different answers.

These ranged from people who "are always sneaking around" to what Sen. McCarthy of Wisconsin accused his enemies of being. There was no agreement.

Of the 241—and this too seems to be significant—97 persons said they had no idea what it meant to be a Communist.

The result of this survey is deeply significant. Next time you yield to the impulse to call someone a Communist, write down on a piece of paper what you think you mean. Be sure that what you really meant was not some name with no ideological implications.

Mindful Of The Camera

A circumstance of televised sessions of current congressional hearings is being noted by those who are sure there must be two sides to the question of putting these spectacles on the air willy-nilly.

As all viewers know, something happens to human beings when they are brought into focus. They smirk and wave. It is an invariable behavior pattern.

They want to be noticed by the unseen audience which is peering at them through the camera. Amateurs make palpable fools of themselves and professionals turn into hams.

The professionals include politicians, because politicians must master the trick of being noticed and remembered.

Before public business is turned into show what is happening in the televised congressional hearings should assemble the available evidence.

With Sen. Tobey getting ready to make a triumphant return to the air, Rudolph Halley in business willy-nilly, those in position to evaluate New York City politics up to his famous horn rims and Sen. Kefauver marking time anxiously until 1956, this is a good time to reappraise the reasons why some politicians think everything that might win votes should be televised.

The difference between success and failure often is keeping your mind on your work instead of your work on your mind.

It would help a lot these days if even one could live as cheaply as one.

Security In Idaho

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Court Upholds Property Lien On Pensioners

There must be some mysterious destiny that has preserved the State of Idaho from some of the mistakes and excesses characteristic of many sister states. It chooses to be enlightened and progressive, and conservative, too.

This is well illustrated by its policies toward what is called social security. Some states have all but sacrificed their solvency in offering free social services to all comers. And in states like California and Washington, there were plenty of comers.

Conservative people in those states have contended for a long time that when old folks who owned real property applied for assistance from the state, they should agree that such property should be assigned as security and that on their deaths the state should recover the amounts given as assistance. This arrangement is commonly known in the West as a "lien law" and it has been hotly debated in several states.

In 1951, the State of Idaho enacted a law requiring a lien on the real property of those recipients of old-age assistance who owned it. This lien gave assurance of the recovery of payments of assistance, at least up to the value of the property. The law was an amendment to earlier legislation providing for old-age assistance in cooperation with the federal social security system.

A husband and wife attacked the constitutionality of this law in the courts, and the Supreme Court of Idaho has just handed down its decision. The court finds no constitutional bar to such a law.

Judge Taylor's opinion is a thorough consideration of the question and should be of interest to other states which are struggling with the question.

Certainly, said the court, this requirement of a lien is no impairment of the individual's right to the enjoyment of property, since the right to property is subject to reasonable limitation. Nor is there any unlimited obligation resting upon the state to provide assistance payments.

The granting of such aid is entirely a matter of statute in which the state voluntarily assumes the responsibility of helping designated persons. The court noted that "the theory of the American political system is that the citizen supports the state, not the reverse."

The provisions of the Idaho law amended by the 1951 statute describe a "fair and humane plan." Under it, "the needy aged, who own a home, may secure old-age assistance while continuing to occupy and enjoy their home, rather than being required to mortgage or sell it, and consume the proceeds in living expenses before receiving aid."

At the same time it preserves the property as a means of reimbursing the welfare fund, thus giving the recipients the satisfaction of paying their own way as far as they are able, and with the least hardship.

It also reduces the amount which must be continuously provided by the taxpayers of the state and nation, who, through their legislative representatives, have voluntarily assumed the moral obligation to provide such aid.

This, it would seem, should be the principle under which the various states, as well as the federal government, will ultimately be compelled to operate.

Berlin At East-West Crossroads

By ERNST REUTHER

In view of Gen. Chuikov's recent conference with British officials about air lanes, "reunification" of Germany and refugee problems, this article by the mayor of Berlin is specially timely. In writing this article, Mayor Reuter had the assistance of Kurt Singer, well-known author of "Women Spies," "Gentlemen Spies" and other books.

BERLIN

Looking back on the last seven years, it is difficult to escape the impression that the history not only of Germany, not only of Europe, but of the world, often found shape in Berlin.

In this city of four sectors of foreign occupation, heavily maimed by two world wars, a city which frequently is called "The Secret Capital" of our nation;

It is a city which—if German history is not to lose all sense—must again, in a foreseeable future, become the capital of a Germany reunited in liberty. Here the world-shaking debate between "West" and "East" undoubtedly has found expression more clearly than elsewhere.

The end is not in sight. It is necessary to accept and, more important, to orient ourselves according to the view that the citizens of Berlin, who have so often given an example of untiring effort for the maintenance of freedom and democracy, will yet be exposed to new trials and face new and heavy struggles.

It is human and only too easy to understand if the citizens of Berlin today, after seven years of truly heroic resistance to the blandishments, as well as to the menaces of the East, more emphatically than ever raise the demand that the world outside the Iron Curtain, first and foremost the Germans in the Federal Republic of Western Germany, finally and in real earnest endeavor to grasp the meaning and historical significance of their struggle for the future of humanity, a struggle which is not one for material things alone, as day after day, it emerges into the realm of morality and the spirit.

The sources of the strength of the free world lie, and I emphasize this in my capacity as a citizen of Berlin, not only in its material superiority, compared with the Bolshevik system and the so-called people's democracies; rather must they be found primarily in our individual selves, in our conviction that only in freedom can the human being breathe, in our sense of human dignity, and in our faith in the power of the idea that permeates us which is the primacy of justice over brute force.

We recognize that much has been done for Berlin in the years that have gone. Gladly and with satisfaction do we record the progress of Berlin toward the position of a city in which people meet from all parts of Germany to consider common interests, problems and tasks; a city in which German and international conferences, fairs and meetings are held, in which people pass beyond the often too narrow and even petty problems of the nation to the conceptions of the future expressing a citizenship of the world which can only grow naturally in a true metropolis like Berlin.

Yet tasks of immeasurable range have to be taken up if Berlin is to continue to fulfill the historic function entrusted to it of standing fast against the onslaught of the East and at the same time representing the free world.

Of their own strength the citizens of Berlin cannot solve this problem. They certainly cannot do so if the citizens of Western Germany and the free nations do not undertake everything, and I mean everything, in their power in order to mobilize and to utilize the energies that are still unused in this city, the good will and the readiness to act.

Two burning problems preoccupy the people of Berlin, problems which have not just now arisen, namely the problems of unemployment and of the refugees. None of them can be solved without the help of the Federal Republic of Western Germany and without the support of the free world.

This applies particularly to the refugee problem and the number of these unhappy people in recent weeks has been increasing day by day. In any case unemployment can be reduced to a manageable volume in Berlin only if the Federal Republic of Western Germany and the nations outside the Iron Curtain realize that every order placed in Berlin strengthens the city as an outpost of the Western World and that every purchase made in Berlin contributed to their own defenses.

That is the way, and the only way, to help the citizens of Berlin. They do not want charity, they want work.

In this perspective the people of Berlin constitute the conscience of the whole German nation and, beyond that, of the entire free world. Whatever judgement history may eventually pass on their accomplishments, the people of Berlin will remain conscious of their mission as long as Berlin is the center of the all-embracing conflict between West and East.

They do not expect gratitude or praise, but they do hope that the free world, in its entirety, will prove more than ever conscious of its responsibility toward Berlin. As it fulfills this responsibility, the free world shows whether it is prepared to preserve the opportunity provided by Berlin in the interest of peace.

Finding The Treasonable Teachers

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

I can find no record that Dr. George N. Shuster, president of Hunter College, complained when the Puyo, La Follette, Pecora, Black or other committees of Congress investigated American business.

The Nye committee was run by Alger Hiss. The La Follette committee was infiltrated by Communists as the senator admitted in a magazine article. The Black committee invaded the privacy of citizens.

But President Shuster did wax indignant over investigating the conduct of teachers and professors in schools and colleges. It is a question of whose foot the shoe squeezes.

DR. SHUSTER is apparently class-conscious, as are so many college presidents and professors. Yet the fact is that Dr. Bella Dodd, who was a Communist and had organized the teachers of New York, had been a teacher at Hunter College; and there are others there, as Dr. Shuster must know. I mention this only because of the loud protests from the schools whenever anyone takes a look at what is going on in them and what teachers are doing to the minds of our children.

I heard a teacher say in the presence of 16-year-old boys that a true Christian must be an alien in every national state. What he really meant was that a "true Christian" owes his first allegiance to God and that that transcends loyalty to the country, the family and everything else.

This might be called a universalist point of view, the One World concept of life which, while it is unrealistic in our day, may have the virtue of abstract idealism.

A MAN'S opinions are his own in our free society and there should be no impairment of the right of an individual to advocate a cause. Nevertheless, our children are our own and we do not send them to school to be corrupted and perverted by teachers.

When resentment to nationalism is taught with all the authority that a teacher has over a child, to boys of 16 who live in the shadow of the draft, the impressionable mind may go farther than the teacher intends — and lives can be wrecked, the lives of your children and mine.

A teacher who imposes untested private views on boys and girls in puberty assumes a function for which he is not hired.

Christianity does not benefit by this kind of propaganda. In these days, the only beneficiary can be our current enemy, Soviet Russia, whose desire is to destroy the will of our people to resist. Whenever Soviet Russia conquers a country, Christianity in all its forms is persecuted in that country.

I DO NOT say, because it would be untrue, that those who advocate One World and dramatize their ideal by lessening the faith of Americans in their own country are Communists. Some of them are violently anti-Communist. But they are confused people who confuse our children. They advocate the impossible but clothe their assumptions in lofty language.

What responsibilities will they assume for boys who try to escape the draft and are jailed for it? Will they sit out the jail sentences for these boys or will they make speeches on the evils of a government killing its own sons by futile wars?

What responsibilities will they assume, if our will to resist the enemy is so weakened that we fall from within as Czechoslovakia and Hungary fell because the will to resist was insufficient? Will they then say to Stalin's commissars that they believe in One World but not the Kremlin's One World?

WHEN A teacher rejects love of country, he ought, in decency, no longer teach children of parents who do believe that national existence is essential for the survival of our country. To do less is to trick and fool the parents. It is a betrayal of a trust.

What would parents do about teachers who advocate free love or the virtues of prostitution to boys and girls in the impressionable years of puberty? There would be a terrific howl, the first moment the parents knew of it. And that should be the response of parents when teachers, for any reason whatsoever, impress upon young minds the virtues of betrayal and treason.

Let no one make a mistake: this is now happening in the United States and everything that is done to bring it into the open is justified and correct.

Nobody Forgets Mama

By TRUMAN TWILL

Don't be skittish, but you are now entering a "matriarchy." The deep thinkers agree this is so. Pretty soon they'll have all of us shallow thinkers saying it — and then it will be so.

Here is Thornton Wilder saying so in the new issue of Harper's. "Within 40 years," declares Wilder, "America has ceased to be a patriarchy; it is moving toward a matriarchy but has not yet recognized and confirmed it. There is nothing wrong with a matriarchy. It is merely a shift of balance."

Mama goes to school as long as she feels like it and goes to work as long as she feels like it. She has more than half the securities listed in her name. She outlives papa long enough on the average to make this mean something, too.

She does nearly all the buying for the family. The bulk of all advertising and good-will building is aimed directly at her sensibilities. She runs for office, votes the way she pleases if that seems more important than pleasing her room mate, writes best-selling books and pays her own taxes.

She tells the architect what she wants the house to look like, drives an automobile as well or better than the men who used to have a monopoly on driving spirited horses, runs business enterprises successfully and goes to war in a uniform.

Mom does nearly all the public-school teaching, decides what the family should look at on TV, tells the kids when they should go to bed and tells papa when it is time for him to buy a new suit so she can make a rag rug out of his old one.

"She Kodaks as she goes, plays the ball fiddle, rattles other lady rattlers in public for a living swims channels, uses tobacco in all its forms, swaggers up to the bar for a quick one and shucks off a no-good husband if he becomes unbearable."

She knows all the cuss words and others besides, even if she chooses to be a lady and not use them. She is privileged to show contempt for male ignoramus if she is smarter than they are, is privileged to have a scandal on her own initiative without being driven into outer darkness and doesn't have to be a slave to housekeeping, unless she gets pleasure out of slavery.

She can hire a baby-sitter to give herself time off, go out alone after dark without being talked about, compete catch-as-catch-can for any white-collar job and some of the blue-color ones and patronize her own barbershop.

This is what the deep thinkers have in mind when they say the United States is getting to be a matriarchy which, strictly defined, means a society in which all descent is traced in the mother's line, with children identified as belonging to the clan of the mama, instead of the papa.

That will be the climax — the day when hotel registers are signed Mary Smith and Husband — when Husband is identified as the former Mr. Elmer Shultz, son of the late Mrs. and Mr. Matilda Shultz.

Don't bet it won't happen. Think of the money you'd have lost betting against what has happened in the transition from what used to be a patriarchy.

Once Over

The Week Of Weeks

Reflections on Holy Week: Easter for the Christian, the Passover season for the Jew, and, for many peoples of many faiths, a time in which there was a springtime surge of the kindlier instincts, perhaps in a degree responsible even for the sudden prospect of peace in Korea. One thing is certain: the week put hatred, animosity and slaughter in the proper category of shabby savage and wholly deplorable things. The crucifix, the piping of the song birds and the miracle of spring blend with the resurrection and the stone rolled back.

Easter is the time when the Pipes of Pan, the Psalms of David, the cathedral organ, the music of hurdy-gurdy and organ-grinder and the great hymns of millions merge in a song of the centuries. Reverent beauty tops the volume. Vainity and gaiety are in the picture, but there is a stirring of the wells of faith deeper than we know. The music from street musicians and in the laughter of children mingle with the chants, the supplications and the Voice of Kingdom Come. Among all the holy seasons this is it!

Easter is the day when an uplifted chalice seems more powerful than the atom bomb, when the mumbled words at an altar seem to have more meaning than the orations of the great, and when millions on their knees at a communion rail testify to a depth of faith in things of the spirit.

It is the day that brings a consecration with the dawn, and the first rays of the sun seem a holy manifestation. Easter is the Sunday when a GI in Korea is not a kid doing a military stretch, but a youngster going the Way of the Cross, the thought of him making your prayer more fervent.

It is the day when a man or a woman knows no self-consciousness before an altar and touches a candle with a flaming taper with more confidence than he or she has shown in any act of the year . . . it is the hour when the cynic says, "I must be wrong" and the agnostic admits, "I wonder." It is the day when a certain note in the voice of a child in a choir loft carries a message more powerful than all the speeches of world leaders. . . .

Easter is the sabbath when even in Russia the churches glow richly and no dictator in any satellite dares to say, "Stay away!" to the masses.

Easter brings the morning when the church seems all-important even to the once-n-a-while churchgoer, when the wildest kid looks the most angelic member of the choir, when the longest sermon seems okay and when Irving Berlin's "Easter Parade" blends with the great hymns, the cathedral chimes, the village church bells and the laughter of the moppets in their new Easter finery. Easter is the day when mom gets a special glow out of a weird hat, and pop admits the sermon was good.

Huck Finn's hair freshly cut, and wearing a new suit, manages to seem in character; Sister Sue in her Easter dress blooms like a field flower; the scent of flowers and incense and the beauty of vestment, stained glass window and banked lilies gives a glow perceived by all faiths and sects. Reverence and joy are blended, the story of the resurrection stirs Christian and non-Christian; and to the piping of the robin and the whisperings of the willows comes the message, "Be not affrightened. Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth. He is risen. He is not here."

The country, we think, has a long cheer for Dr. A. Whitney Griswold, the young, vital head of Yale, chairman of the Committee of Five making a report on what should be the attitude of colleges with respect to the hunt for Communies. . . . The report holds that any faculty member who is a Communist has betrayed his calling and is under a duty to speak out when questioned. . . . And it declares that the duty of investigation and exposure lies with the colleges themselves.

It can be understood why the long tirades in U.N. are hard to take, but it would be a big help to our side if Sir Gladwyn Jebb looked a little less chronically bored in those newspaper and newsreel pictures.

What can you say for a state like Florida that sees its waterfront jammed with million-dollar hotels and private palaces and permits the aged and mentally ill to be housed in fire-traps?

Joe McCarthy is getting a blasting for taking too much credit for halting Greek ships carrying war supplies to the enemy. Admittedly he was no shrinking violet in the incident, but this column can forgive a lot in any man who really awakens the public to what has been going on in shipping circles. . . . The simple fact is that, despite vigilant work by our undermanned agencies, most of our Allies have been permitting ship after ship loaded with war potentials to get through to Iron Curtain countries, using every dodge in the book.

Atomic Submarine To Get Test In Fantastic Steel Sphere

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (AP) — Sometime during the next few months the midships section of a submarine containing a complete atomic propulsion system will slide into a fantastic steel sphere.

The great steel ball will house the "submarine intermediate reactor" during its test. There are other things about the project that are just as startling:

1. A metal becomes a free-flowing liquid.

2. A powerful pump has no moving parts.

3. Electronic watchdogs, alert for danger, are poised to shut off the atomic engine in a split-second if things go wrong.

Working at two sites near here are the Atomic Energy Commission the Navy, the General Electric Company, the Chicago Bridge and Iron Company, General Dynamics Corp., and other contractors and sub-contractors. They are assembling the nuclear engine and the elaborate test and safety system that goes with it.

It is the first full-scale, powerful atomic reactor to be built close to two cities and several large villages. This accounts for the steel sphere—250 feet in diameter—a device intended to confine any contaminated gases which might be generated in an accident.

The atomic reactor is one of two types which will serve as patterns for sea-going versions to be installed in two submarines.

It is called an "intermediate" reactor because of the intermediate speed of neutrons produced in its fission process—faster than the neutrons of a thermal reactor built for the other submarine, slower than the ultra-fast neutrons released in certain laboratory experiments.

At least in theory the intermediate reactor here may have some advantages:

1. Higher energy neutrons are not as readily absorbed by conventional metals used in the structure of the reactor or steam generating unit.

2. The liquid metal and unique no-moving-parts pump may save space and weight.

Because the neutron energy of the intermediate reactor is reasonably high, more or less conventional al metals can be used in the structure.

The reactor is being fabricated at the Knolls Atomic Power Laboratory, on the outskirts of this city.

When all materials are on hand, they will be taken to the West Milton test site, 18 miles to the north.

It is there craftsmen are putting together the biggest metal ball ever made. When completed, there will be more than five miles of welding to hold the plates together. The steel arrives in curved plates, is welded into sections ranging up to 36 by 32 feet and weighing about 50,000 pounds, and hoisted aloft by a crane which towers up from the center of the sphere.

The 3,850-ton ball will support its own weight, but 26 steel columns will steady it against the wind.

At its base is a section of a hull like that which will be the submarine Sea Wolf. The hull section has few unusual construction characteristics.

From this "fire room," heavily shielded to hold back dangerous radiation, will leave the pipeline to transfer the atomic-generated heat to the steam turbine system in the engine room aft.

The heat transfer metal is sodium, a silvery substance which melts at a temperature a little below that of boiling water.

To flow the heat-charged sodium through the pipe, the designers have come up with the curious "electromagnetic pump," which uses electrical induction.

Advantages of the pump include its flat, compact form which will meet the tight space requirements of a submarine. Because there are no moving parts, it is easy to seal against leakage.

The builders and testers consider the possibility of an accident during test quite remote. The $2,146,000 steel sphere in which the test will be conducted is considered insurance against the remote possibility.

2 Senators Back Hall For GOP Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two more members of Congress, both of them regarded as political friends of Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), came out publicly over the week end for Leonard W. Hall for chairmanship of the Republican National Committee.

They were Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) and Rep. Reece (R-Tenn).

The committee is scheduled to meet here Friday to name a successor to C. Wesley Roberts, who resigned.

Hall, a former member of the House and now a surrogate, or judge of wills and estates, in Nassau County, indicated after a call on President Eisenhower Saturday he would accept the job if it is offered to him.

There has been some speculation that Taft, the GOP leader in the Senate, was not an enthusiastic about Hall, who has been endorsed by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York. Taft has said whomever Eisenhower wants for the job should be named without a fight.

Writer Who Threatens Ike Is Sought

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Secret Servicemen and postal inspectors are still looking today for a known writer of threatening letters in connection with threats against the lives of President Eisenhower and Leo A. Werner, Harrisburg postmaster.

The handwriting on a page and a half letter received about two weeks ago by Werner led officials to search for Albert J. Dreynov, about 35, a former Washington state hospital patient.

The letter was mailed from Lancaster, where Dreynov was seen about three weeks ago.

Dreynov "has a long history of writing threatening letters which never really amount to anything," said Fred Gruber, Secret Service agent in charge at Philadelphia. Gruber is conducting the investigation in the case.

However, a Secret Service circular circulated to postal authorities described Dreynov as an escapee from a Washington state hospital who is "considered dangerous."

Frank Creedon, Harrisburg postal inspector said the handwriting on the letter received by Werner matched Dreynov's. Dreynov is a former resident of Vancouver, Wash., San Francisco and Denver.

Gruber guessed Dreynov may still be in Eastern Pennsylvania "but there is no way of knowing."

Miss Dorothy Arlene Farmer Is Bride Of Richard Griffith

A candlelight ceremony was the setting for the wedding Saturday at 7:30 p.m. when Miss Dorothy Arlene Farmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh G. Farmer of Leetonia, became the bride of Richard K. Griffith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon F. Griffith of Damascus.

Rev. E. D. Fager performed the double ring service at St. Jacob's Evangelical and Reformed Church at Lisbon. The bride's father gave her in marriage.

Palms, ferns, calla lilies, snapdragons and candelabra formed the altar decorations. Cardies were also placed at the windows.

Soloist was Ralph Cook of Leetonia, who sang "The Lord's Prayer," "Because," and "I Love You Truly."

The bride's gown of chantilly lace over satin was fashioned with a full skirt, snug fitted bodice, sheer yoke, petal collar and long pointed sleeves. Her fingertip veil of French illusion was attached to a lace and seed pearl cap. She carried an arm bouquet of calla lilies.

Mrs. Evelyn Caldwell, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a daffodil yellow floor length gown of lace and net with a lace bodice, buttoned net skirt and matching lace jacket. Her headband was of matching yellow. Her colonial bouquet was of carnations and snapdragons.

Best man was Eugene Griffith, brother of the groom. Mahlon Griffith, Jr., another brother, and Kenneth Baker of Leetonia were ushers.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue dress with pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother wore a black dress with white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Approximately 150 persons attended the reception at the church. A four-tier wedding cake was served by Mrs. Albert Lewis. She was assisted in serving by Mrs. Raymond Taylor of Columbiana and Mrs. Dean Adams of Lisbon. Miss Patricia Griffith, sister of the groom, was in charge of the guest register.

The bride, a graduate of Fairfield High School, is employed in the office of the Crescent Machine Division in Leetonia. Her husband, a graduate of Goshen High School, is a patternmaker at Taylor Pattern Works here.

For traveling to Florida on a two-week honeymoon, the new Mrs. Griffith wore a tan suit with wheat colored accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

Upon their return, the couple will occupy their newly furnished apartment on the Albany Rd.

Hostetter-Fast Nuptials Held In Concord Church Saturday

The sanctuary of the Concord Presbyterian Church was lighted by candles for the wedding of Miss Glennell Mae Hostetter and William A. Fast Saturday evening at 7:30. Rev. D. Hamilton Funk, church pastor, performed the ceremony uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hostetter of RD 4, Salem and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fast of Washingtonville.

Candles in seven branch candelabra were arranged with palms and ferns at the altar where the couple exchanged their vows and rings. Candles lighted the aisles and white bows marked the pews where friends and relatives were seated.

Lois Talbott, organist, played the traditional nuptial music and accompanied the soloist, Carol Stille, as she sang, "Because," "Yours," and "At Dawning." As the bride and groom knelt during the ceremony, Miss Stille sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Complementing the bride's gown of chantilly lace and nylon tulle, were the groom's gift of pearls. The Bible she carried, also the gift of the groom, was covered with white roses.

Her gown was fashioned with a portrait neckline outlined with pleated nylon tulle, and a pattern of seed pearls and sequins added to the beauty of the bodice. Nylon tulle added to the bouffant effect of the full skirt arranged over white satin. The fingertip veil of imported illusion was held in place by a matching tulle cap, trimmed with pearls.

The bride's attendants were gowned in stardust blue and cameo pink. Lace and nylon tulle in waltz-length styled their gowns. They wore matching hats and white gloves.

Miss Jean Stille was maid of honor in cameo pink and her bouquet contained yellow carnations. Gowned in stardust blue were bridesmaids, Miss June Von Kael and Miss Verla Weingart. The carnations they carried were pink. Sharon Morrow, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. Her pink gown copied the bride's and her flowers filled a small basket.

Robert Sneddon was best man. Ushers were Richard Fast, brother of the groom, Paul Hostetter and Leroy Hostetter, brother of the bride. Will Hively, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hostetter chose a dress of light blue lace with navy accessories and a pink rose corsage. Mrs. Fast wore lavender lace and crepe with purple accessories and a contrasting corsage of pink roses.

The newlyweds greeted more than 175 friends and relatives at the reception in the church social room. People were present from Salem, Mineral Ridge, Washingtonville, Leetonia, Youngstown, Ak-

PICKING A travel wardrobe is easy now, like answering the $64 question. It's mostly a matter of deciding what you want—suit, ensemble, separates or all three?

Since airlines have their weight limits on luggage and trains have their limits on space, it's wise to do your planning on paper before you buy. Know just what you will need each day while you're away and try to pick fashions that will perform on many occasions. Picking a fashion that can be worn only once on your trip is a waste of money. Don't forget to count in your nylon lingerie and hose and the seal flakes with which to launder them.

Careful Planning Can Save Painting Money

Haste makes waste, said an old house painter. With all of his experience he ought to know. The home owner bent on saving a few dollars in this spring clean-up, paint-up season should be able to use that tip. With the price of good paint what it is today, there's no economy in a slap-dash job.

So we asked an authority in the paint industry. He tells us we can save the most by using our heads before we try our brushes. He says, "Think" is worth a gallon of paint any day. He's Douglas C. Arnold, head of Keystone Paint and Varnish.

Arnold lists these five points for any householder's profit:

1. Use a high quality paint. Cheap paint may look fine when applied, but it can chalk excessively, or harden to a finish that will chip and peel. Good paint is engineered to "breathe" in accordance with its requirements. It will last longer and forestall frequent redecoration.
2. Use the right paint for the right surface. Trims and woodwork subject to wear, need a gloss or semi-gloss enamel, although flat paint may suffice for the wall. But never use indoor paints outdoors. They won't stand the weather.

3. Prepare the surface properly and carefully. The best paint in the world will not hold or look well over old paint that is peeling and cracking. Cracks in a surface must be filled and smoothed and the surface thoroughly cleaned before even a priming coat is applied.
4. Apply paint properly. Brush it in narrow strips from top to bottom indoors, taking care that the edge of the strip does not have time to set before the next strip is painted. Outdoors, paint in horizontal strips following the clapboards or shingles.
5. Accurately estimate the amount of paint needed. It is better to have a little too much than to have not enough. But you won't go overboard if you use your head. The number of square feet you can cover with a gallon of paint (see table) depends on the material being painted, on the paint and on its dilution.

"SEVERAL THIN coats of paint will look better and last longer than a lesser number of heavy coats," says Arnold. "A thin coat will dry more quickly. It is important that a previous coat of paint be allowed to dry thoroughly before the following coat is applied."

Estimating the amount of paint needed for any area is fairly simple once measurements are taken. Multiply the distance around the house by the height to the eaves line. Make no deductions for windows and doors—unless windows exceed more than 100 square feet each—since these openings will be cancelled by board edges, eaves and other details.

Gable ends are measured by multiplying the width at base by half the height. For a gambrel roof add 25 per cent to this figure. For double hip, Gothic or barrel roofs, add 50 per cent.

For dormer windows, use a quick estimate of 100 square feet, regardless of width. Eaves are discounted unless more than a foot wide. When beams or rafters protrude under eaves the area is doubled.

The trim around the average window or door is usually calculated as 35 square feet. Balustrade and lattice work are figured by measuring the front area and multiplying by 4.

The number of square feet which can be covered by one gallon of paint averages as follows for each coat:

Surface	First Coat	Second Coat	Third Coat
Frame Siding	468	540	630
Exterior Trim	850	900	972
Asbestos Wall Shingles	373	400	423
Wood Shingle Siding	342	423	468
Interior Smooth Plaster Walls	630	540	630
Flat Oil Paint	630	540	630
Gloss or Semi-Gloss	630	540	630
Calcimine	720	240	540
Casement Paint	540	700	700
Interior Doors and Windows (enamel)	405	405	504

(All figures are for brush painting)

"If the above simple rules are followed, the home owner will get much more for his paint dollar," Arnold contends. "When the cost of a paint job is figured over the years it lasts, the annual budget for repainting will be sharply reduced."

Quizzing The Gardener

Q—Will the Firethorn lend itself for use as a tall hedge along a driveway?

A—Firethorn, crataegus pyracantha, can be used as a hedge. However, when used along a driveway it should be kept well sheared, since by nature it is a sprawling large shrub. Trimming will remove most of the flowers and thus very few red berries will develop.

A Man's Place Is In The Home

By CHARLES HONCE

My theme today is that a man does not take enough personal interest in the decorating scheme and furnishings of his home.

Usually he leaves it to the wife, either because he is too lazy, uninterested, uninformed, or because the wife insists.

But is the result always a happy one? By no means! I've seen some horrible messes when the wife was left to her own devices. My opinion is that men have just as much flair for home decoration as women in decorative taste. If they feel they haven't they should study up and get help because it will pay dividends.

I suppose the average man's attitude is illustrated by a conversation I had with one of my conferees after I had decided to sound off in this piece.

"Do you take any interest or have you anything to say about the physical arrangement or furnishings of your home?" I asked. "We are just getting some new drapes and I helped pick the shade of red that I like," he replied.

But he added quickly that if his wife hadn't liked the shade it was a good bet that it wouldn't go into his home.

"Perhaps," I continued, "men usually keep off the decorating front on the theory that if they horn in on such things they will be forced to do a lot of other things around the house, leaving less time for the easy chair."

"That sounds reasonable," my friend replied. "A woman usually feels that the house is her concern, just as the office is her husband's, and let each stick to his own last."

He thought a moment and then said with something of an air of triumph:

"We also are painting our basement floor and I've been permitted to choose whatever color I want there."

The next man I queried said: "I keep my mouth shut about the home. Of course I have ideas on decor but when I mention them the wife says: 'OK, give me the money.' That ends the discussion."

Because I have always been extremely interested in color schemes and the furnishings of my home, I have tried to assert myself as much as possible on this front. Believe me, it's not easy and I have to run for the tall timber now and then.

I certainly don't argue my methods for all men. Probably one is enough. But I think a man should be in there slugging at least on a fifty-fifty basis.

A friend in whose judgment I trust said that if the woman takes over entirely, the result is likely to be too feminine. The man usually adds a positive appeal with his masculine viewpoint.

"A combination of the two often results in a happy arrangement," he adds. "Sometimes when the wife and husband have two entirely different ideas and talk it over calmly and sensibly they come up with an entirely new concept that is better than either one."

"It is even worth while to have the kids come up with suggestions. A home is a place where everybody has to live and it should reflect a livable cross-section viewpoint."

If a woman does not trust herself with home arrangement she usually consults an interior decorator, if she has the dough.

There is nothing wrong with this. The interior decorator will turn in a nice looking job—but that's no assurance that it will reflect the personalities of the persons who live there.

Therefore, I again advise a man to get heated up on the subject and then to take an active hand in giving his home the personal touch that it cannot otherwise have.

Basement Can Be Made Spot For Recreation

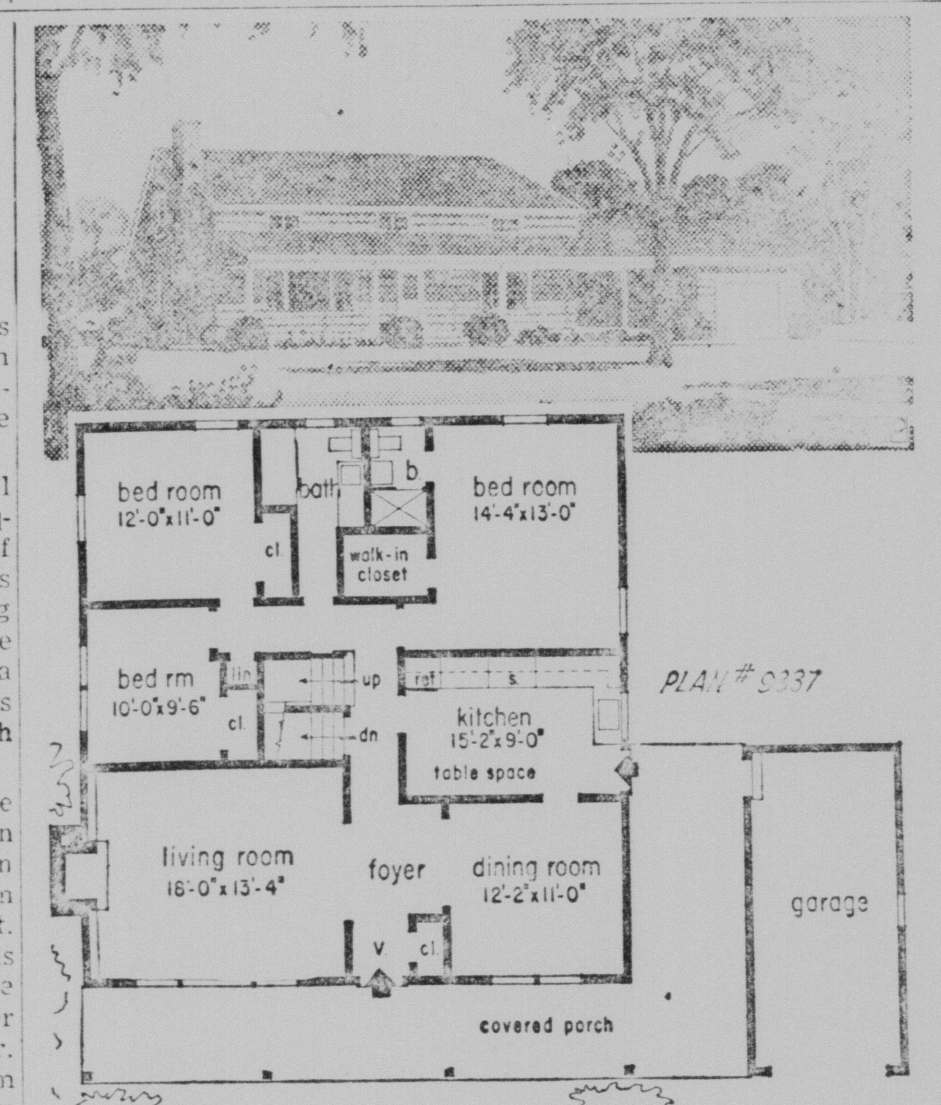

The basement accounts for less than a third of the floor space in a two-story home, but properly utilized it can more than double the fun of family activities.

Even in these days of informal living ordinary rooms aren't equipped for the rough activities of children or the boisterous parties of the holiday season. But by going underground and outfitting the basement as a recreation area any family can have a space that's adapted to the needs of both youth and adult.

A basement recreation space should be a play area that can put on a good appearance at an hour's notice. That means built-in storage space and plenty of it. Each child in the family needs storage for his toys so they can be put out of the way and from under foot before meals or the bed hour. The basement recreation room should also provide storage for card tables, the movie projector, skis, golf clubs, and other sports equipment. The home owner with a little knowledge of simple tools can "tailor make" the interior of cupboards and cabinets for just such special items.

In a play room, no one wants to worry about spilling things on the floor or damaging it. A durable material such as tile won't be scratched or marred by children's feet, and won't need a rug or other floor covering. Cigarette ashes and spilled drinks or food can be removed from a tile floor in a jiffy.

A snack bar outfitted with dimeter glasses and china will make serving easy in the basement recreation room and no one will worry when such inexpensive glassware is broken. An unpainted bookcase anchored to a wall and enameled in a gay color is a low-cost and practical selection. Use folding chairs for parties so that you can stow them away afterwards and have freedom of movement.

A MODERN HOME exploiting the lines and center hall plan of Early American houses, this dwelling covers 1,255 square feet exclusive of its porch and garage. A spacious second floor can be finished for extra rooms. Built and sold on a quarter acre in the Bar Harbor section of Massapequa Park, N. Y., for less than $20,000, the house proved a popular model with its 60-foot veranda. This is Plan 9337 by Rudolph A. Matern, architect, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica 2, N. Y.

Bright colors live up any room and they're essential in a basement play area. Let them help you get parties off to a good start, and keep your children in a happy mood from day to day.

Aluminum Paint Stops Oil Paint Bleed

Aluminum paint is often used as a barrier over bituminous paints and oil stains to prevent them from bleeding through and discoloring finishing coatings.

Painters frequently use aluminum paint as a sealer when changing the color of interior woodwork which previously was stained mahogany. After aluminum paint is thoroughly dry, it can be finished with white or any light tint.

Icebergs are seen in the heart of the Arctic Ocean. Most of them are "born" along the western coast of Greenland and are found in nearby waters.

Light Has Unusual Effects On Colors

Before you begin the painting of a room, it's a good idea to brush out a large sample of the color you plan to use—possible even two feet square. Study this carefully under artificial as well as natural light for its color and the way it looks in relation to the other colors that will be in the room.

Remember that fluorescent tubes have unusual effects on colors. For this reason, a sample which might look well under fluorescent lighting might not look well under incandescent lighting—or under natural lighting conditions. The reverse is, of course, also true.

Incandescent light, incidentally, overemphasizes the reds and produces a warm yellow glow. Fluorescent tubes, on the other hand, produce light that is rich in colors associated with the cool end of the spectrum, with the emphasis on blue and green.

Extra Time, Work Now Will Mean Finer Lawn In Summer

By HENRY PREE

Garden Chores for the Week End: The lawn is either a challenge or a nuisance to the roving home gardener. If he wants to achieve a real carpet of green, the sooner he gets busy the fewer worries he will have this summer.

First on the list of chores is to rake the lawn with a flexible metal tooth rake, or leaf rake, to loosen the dead grass and to roughen the surface of the soil so that the fertilizer can enter the soil and reach the grass roots.

A second raking to remove the fertilizer from the grass blades is recommended—then water well so that the fertilizer gets into the soil where it belongs—and also to prevent it burning the grass. A 4-12-4, 4-10-5 or any fertilizer strong in phosphorus is recommended. Apply at the rate of two or three pounds per 100 square feet of lawn area.

The Old Gardener again says "if you feel that you must roll the lawn—do so with the lightest roller you can get—an empty water ball-roller is fine." Remember that rolling is not to pack the soil down or to even up bumps or hollows—but to gently firm back into the soil any grass plants which were heaved out by frost action.

Reseeding of bare and thin areas should be done but only after the soil has been loosened to a depth of an inch and some peatmoss and fertilizer has been worked in. Seedling should be light, using no more than one half pound for each 100 square feet. Heavier seeding is wasteful.

Hardy roses may be pruned as soon as one is reasonably sure that danger of freezing weather is past. Replacements of roses which have died during the winter may be made as soon as the ground can be worked. Some losses must be expected.

Hardy chrysanthemums and most other late-flowering perennials may be divided when they start to grow. Have the beds ready, so that they may be replanted as soon as the divisions are made. Chrysanthemums need dividing each spring.

As soon as planting conditions are right, sow the following vegetables: Peas, parsnips, spinach, beet, carrots, lettuce, parsley, radishes, and salsify. Potatoes may go in early too.

It is wise to test vegetable seeds. This testing is easily done by folding them in a strip of blotting paper and inserting the paper in a pan of moist sand. If the sand is kept moist and warm for several days, possibly a week, the best of the seeds will have sprouted. With most vegetables, 75 out of each 100 seeds should start. Annual flowers of most kinds should do as well.

Give the asparagus bed an early dressing of complete commercial fertilizer. Say a 10-6-4 mixture. Dig parsnips that were left in the ground over winter before the tops get too high.

Uncover the perennial beds and strawberry beds gradually. If any of the strawberry plants have been partly heaved out by frost, press them back into place with the foot. The litter which is removed from the strawberry beds may be kept in the rows between the plants to better the ground and keep the berries from the earth.

Set out the strawberry bed this month, or, according to the climate and season, giving it a sunny location with well-drained soil. Set the plants 16 inches apart in the rows and be sure that the crowns are exactly level with the ground. At least one-third of the roots should be trimmed off square with a pair of sharp scissors.

Spray the pear trees, the lilacs, the flowering almonds, and the flowering quinces for scale. Keep an eye out for insect cocoons, caterpillar nests, and insect eggs and destroy them.

Hard Water Is Nuisance To Housewives

Hard water ranks high on the housewife's list of public enemies because it wastes time, energy and money, says the Water Conditioning Foundation.

In contrast, water conditioners aid the housewife by taking much of the drudgery out of housework. Conditioned water helps to balance the budget by making soap go further and prolonging the life of fabrics.

The housewife with a water conditioner in her home will be increasingly aware of time and labor saved in every household chore that requires water.

Softened water develops grease-cutting suds more quickly and uses less soap in the process. Hard water, that is, water with a high mineral content, causes streaks on china and glassware which have to be polished off by vigorous wiping. With soft water painted surfaces and porcelain clean more easily without the use of abrasives and conditioned water will not leave a dirt-collecting, sticky film on woodwork.

Household laundering in soft water is easier and preserves the life of the fabrics. Linens washed in hard water quickly become off-white, while colored fabrics become dull. The vigorous scrubbing necessary to get clothes clean in hard water shortens the life expectancy of fabrics.

According to the foundation, homeowners will find that the cost of a permanent or service-installed water conditioner is small when compared to the benefits received from the use of conditioned water.

FOUND: Cinderella Room In Cellar

By JOHN L. SPRINGER

You can turn that dreary-looking cellar of yours into one of the most glamorous rooms in the house. I know, because I achieved a "Miracle" with mine.

When our home was being planned, we began to think about the fact that it would be on a slope and that, in the back, the foundation would be largely above ground. "I don't like the idea of those bleak concrete walls," my wife commented. "Let's put plenty of windows there."

Somehow, this idea struck our old-fashioned builder as revolutionary. It became necessary to grease his palm furiously before he agreed to such a "crazy" proposition. We had two large picture windows installed, and three smaller ones. Now we are convinced that this was the smartest single idea in the entire house.

Enter: Sunshine

Instead of a dark forbidding-looking cellar, we had a light, airy room from the very beginning. We have since spoken to architects, and they report that the trend is definitely away from those tiny cellar windows whenever possible. Even on level lots, architects are specifying series of large windows around which brick walls can be built to keep the water out. In modernization jobs, other architects are recommending that concrete block foundations be chipped away and larger windows inserted. The idea is to let as much natural light in as possible.

Even with big picture windows, however, concrete walls and floors and exposed ceiling joists can be pretty unsightly. We could have improved appearances a few hundred per cent by roller-painting over the walls, using a rubber-base paint on the floor, and nailing inexpensive composition board on the ceiling. Having a more ambitious plan in mind, we decided to elaborate.

Radiant Heat In Ceiling

All along the walls, I erected a framework of 2 by 2 posts. To these I nailed half-inch gypsum board. We decided to get some heat into the basement, so we ran about 200 feet of copper tubing in coils off the main hot water line and attached it to the ceiling joists. Above the tubing we put aluminum foil, to reflect the heat downward.

Next, I nailed a 1 x 4 furring strips across the ceiling joists. I had intended originally to nail acoustical ceiling tile, 16 inches square, directly to the ceiling joists which theoretically are 16 inches apart. But experienced contractors warned us that those joists are never spaced exactly and that if we attempted to nail directly to them we would soon find our tiles very much out of line. Hence the furring strips. Carefully installed, these guarantee that you will be able to nail your tiles evenly.

Flooring Is a Job

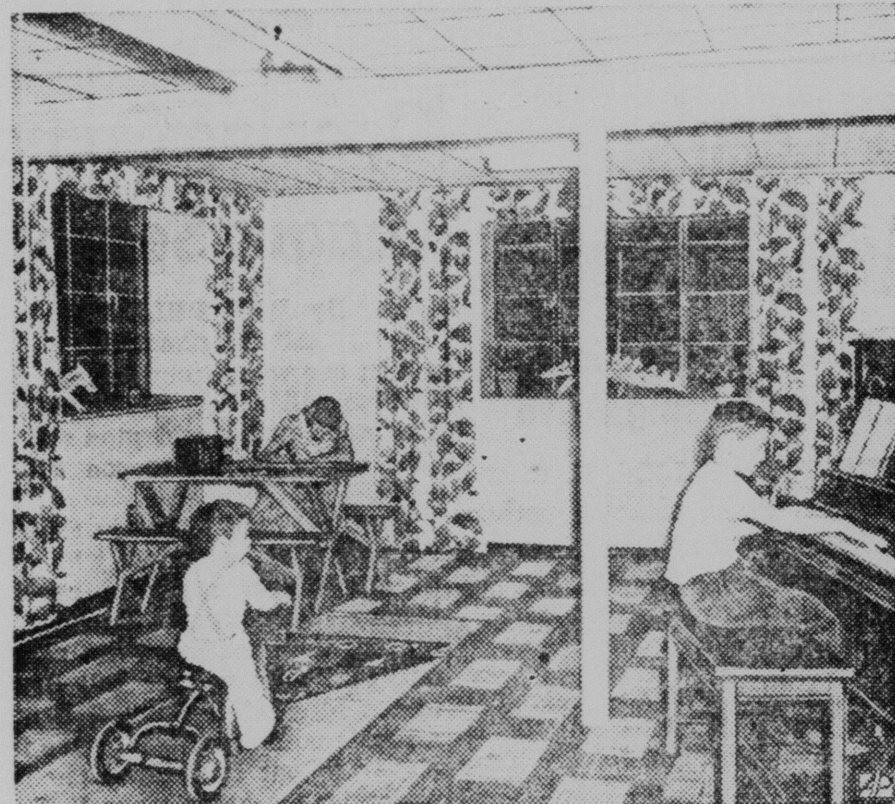

Once we had ceiling and walls taken care of, I thought that installing an asphalt tile floor would be a snap. It wasn't. In fact, I soon discovered why the men who lay tiles for a living sometimes earn more per hour than journeyman carpenters.

It was necessary first to smooth out the inevitable bumps in the concrete floor, then smear the entire area with adhesive. When the tiles were being put down, we discovered that when we came to the walls we would have to cut each tile to fit. That required a good linoleum knife, a very steady hand and a blow torch to soften up the tile for the knife. For a smooth looking job, I found it necessary to install a cove-base molding along the bottom of the wall which covers any cracks resulting from the inability to cut the floor tile exactly.

We boxed in the steel I-beam with white pine (an expensive luxury: spruce would have done the job as well) and ran crown molding around the ceiling where the wall meets the ceiling tile. Since all heating pipes were covered, the only clue that this is a cellar are two steel lally columns. These have been painted the same color as the walls and are inconspicuous. So far a cost of materials of $330, we have a huge, light playroom 16 feet wide and 33 feet long.

Plenty Room for Play

We've found that the number of games that can be played in a good sized playroom almost challenges the imagination. Our room is big enough to play catch with a soft ball. As future possibilities we list bowling sets, table tennis, pool and billiard tables, dart sets, and so on and on.

SPECTACULAR PLAY ROOM: Big windows provide light and air and careful planning makes a magnificent playing area for youngsters. Except for the lolly column, you'd never know that this is a basement.

There is room for piano, phonograph, radio and TV sets. Because we have not furnished the room expensively, we can encourage the youngsters to paint, draw or practice arts and crafts.

Most builders trying to sell modern homes stress the "expansion attic." Our problem—and that of many other parents of youngsters—is not to provide rooms for them to sleep in but rooms for them to play and run around in. We are sold on the idea of an "expansion basement."

Woodwork Stains Compromise Family Spats On Color Scheme

It's on the woodwork in a house that the average man's and average woman's opinions bump and bump hard. So say the decorators.

The average man would like to have woodwork that looks like woodwork, with the natural beauty of the wood maintained without hiding it under paint.

The average woman contends that woodwork should be the same color as the walls, to make it unobtrusive. When the walls are repainted, she tells the painter to use the same paint on the woodwork. When the walls are papered, she stands over the painter until he gets an exact match with the predominant wallpaper color for her woodwork.

A happy compromise has now been worked out by one of the leading paint and varnish manufacturers in the development of a new wood stain in 169 colors. With colored stain, woodwork can match difference. Because of this difference a few of the more delicate reveal all of the natural texture and grain of wood.

To the average person, accustomed to thinking of stain only in shades of brown, or at the most in gray, the development of stains in pastel pinks, blues, yellows and greens opens an entirely new field for wood finishes.

The accurate portrayal of the color effects of these stains on different types of wood is impossible to achieve on the usual paper color tabs of paint charts. To overcome this, the Martin-Senour Co., of Chicago has had color booklets prepared with actual wood chips, shaved paper-thin showing how major shades of 169 colors appear. Close-grained interior woods can produce a soft pinkish cast under one stain, while the same stain used on exterior cedar results in a russet to brown effect. Only natural wood chips can show such differences. Because of this difference a few of the more delicate colors are not recommended for exterior use.

General rules for staining close-grained interior woods, such as birch, maple, gum, white pine, fir, poplar and cedar call for thorough sanding with the grain followed by careful dusting. A coat of colored stain is then brushed on and allowed to dry until three-fourths of the surface appears "flattened out"—usually about 15 to 30 minutes.

Excess stain is then wiped off with a clean rag and 12 to 15 hours are allowed for drying. Two thin coats of spar varnish or clear gloss are then applied with the first coat sanded lightly with 00 sandpaper after it has dried. A dull or rubbed effect can be obtained by using dull varnish for the final coat.

Open-grained interior woods, such as oak, korina, mahogany, walnut, chestnut, ash and elm call for the addition of transparent wood filler to the stain. After the "flattening out" period, a coarse cloth or bur-lap is rubbed across the grain to fill all pores. The same cloth is used to remove excess filler. After drying, this coat is sanded lightly before the finishing varnishing is started.

Good flavor combination: Tiny pieces of semi-sweet chocolate added to orange tapioca pudding.

Indians Lose Third Straight To Giants, 7-2

Tribes Secondary Pitching Falls Apart; Feller Blasted

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — With their secondary pitching starting to falter, the Cleveland Indians plan to put Bob Lemon through the full nine innings today against the New York Giants.

For the last three games, relief pitchers for the once hot Indians haven't been able to fool Giant batters. Al Aber and Steve Gromek were battered Friday. Bob Hooper and Dave Hoskins suffered Saturday.

Sunday, Bob Chakales and Lou Brissie were blasted. So was Bob Feller, who allowed 10 hits in seven innings.

To make things a little worse, Big Three member Mike Garcia is complaining of a pinched nerve

Gil Coan's Ankle Broken

Senator's Outfielder Hurt Chasing Drive

WINSTON - SALEM, N. C. (AP) — A broken ankle, meaning perhaps two months out of action, was the payoff today for Washington outfielder Gil Coan's hustling after a hard hit baseball.

In the Washington - Cincinnati exhibition Sunday at Charlotte, N. C., second baseman Johnny Temple whammed a long drive. Coan backed up fast, leaped high into the air and crashed into the fence. Coming down — without the ball, which went for a triple — Coan caught his spikes on the baseboard, twisted and rolled over. X-rays at a hospital later showed he had broken the small bone at the point of the tibia in his right leg.

For the 28-year-old Coan, who has spent all seven of his previous years in the majors with Washington, it was a heartbreaker. His spring hustle and hitting had stamped him as a man to watch this year.

There were a couple of omens, before and during Sunday's game, which Cincinnati won, 6-2, to snip a three-game winning streak for the Nats.

Before the game, managers of both clubs warned their players not to try sliding into home plate. They said the base stuck up from the ground and might cause a broken leg.

In the second inning — Coan's injury came in the fifth — Washington outfielder Jackie Jensen, going from third to home after a fly ball, rammed into catcher Hank Foiles. Both were bruised and stunned but stayed in the game.

Herb Gorman Dies During Coast Game

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—No. 25 was gone from the San Diego baseball roster today, erased by the death of Herb Gorman.

The 27-year-old Pacific Coast League player was stricken at his left field position in the sixth inning of the opening contest of a scheduled doubleheader Sunday.

He died before the game, which was won by Hollywood 4-2, was over.

The second game was called off on the wishes of Gorman's teammates as expressed to league President Clarence Rowland.

Rowland was in the stands and saw Gorman, who had hit two doubles in two times up, helped from the field after he complained of a chest pain.

The player, whose wife of a year was summoned from the grandstand, lapsed into unconsciousness in the dressing room. An ambulance took him to Mercy Hospital.

Jerry Barber Wins $10,000 Azalea Open

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP)—What a difference a week makes! Today little Jerry Barber was worrying about accommodations at Augusta, Ga., where he will compete in the Masters Golf Tournament, opening Thursday, after winning the $10,000 Azalea Open here yesterday for his first major victory.

A week ago the Illinois native who plays out of La Canada, Calif., near Pasadena, was in the dumps. He hadn't been able to break 300 in the Greensboro Open. The little man (5 feet 5, 140 pounds) had opened the Greensboro tournament with a fat 80, then showed his heart with a second round 69, only to drop far out of the money with a 74-77 the last day for 300.

The poor showing apparently had cost him a chance to qualify for the last open Masters position going to the uninvited pro with the best year's average. But he came up with a 4 under par 68 yesterday to tack on to earlier rounds of 71-65-72 for 276 and top money of $2,000. He had won $2,635 previously this year.

His finish left him one stroke ahead of three men—Johnny Palmer, Charlotte, N. C.; Ted Kroll, New Hartford, N. Y.; and Doug Ford, Harrison, N. Y. Their 277 totals meant $1,066.66 each.

Next at 279, each getting $666.66, came Bo Winiger, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, and Lloyd Mangrum, Niles, Ill.

Tommy Bolt, on top through three rounds, fell to a final 73 for 280 and tied with Lew Worsham, Oakmont, Pa., each winning $415.

Opening Game Of 1953 Major League Season Only Week Off

By BEN PHLEGAR
AP Sports Writer

Just one week from today a man in blue will bellow "Play ball" in Cincinnati and Washington and the 1953 major league season will be open.

The first man to bat in the first inning of the first game will make a little bigger mark in baseball history than usual. Because, if present time schedules are carried out, that man will be Bill Bruton of the Milwaukee Braves. Bruton, a rookie outfielder, will be the first player to bat for Milwaukee in a major league game since 1901.

The Braves, moved from Boston to Milwaukee during the training season, will be the guests of the Cincinnati Reds for the single opening game on the National League schedule. In the American League the defending World Champion New York Yankees visit Washington, where Vice President Nixon will toss out the first ball. The National League should get away first since game time in Cincinnati is 30 minutes earlier than in Washington.

All 16 clubs are due for action a week from tomorrow. In the American League it will be Philadelphia at New York, Washington at Boston, Chicago at Cleveland and Detroit at St. Louis for a night game. In the National League St. Louis will be at Milwaukee, Cincinnati at Chicago, Pittsburgh at Brooklyn and New York at Philadelphia.

Washington suffered a serious setback yesterday when fleet-footed Gil Coan fractured his right ankle when he tried for a circus catch in an exhibition against Cincinnati at Charlotte, N. C. Coan had been banging the ball at a .375 clip this spring. Team officials said the outfielder probably would be sidelined two months.

The St. Louis Browns, who need all the players they can get, lost one of their best ones yesterday when catcher Clint Courtney went after a foul ball and broke the middle finger of his throwing hand. He will be out 10 days to two weeks.

The hospital lists of several of the other clubs also contain the names of men whom the managers would much prefer to have in the lineups.

Hank Sauer of the Chicago Cubs, the most valuable player in the National League last year, is out with a broken little finger. Roy Smalley, the Cubs' regular shortstop, will enter a Chicago hospital today for examination of a swollen ankle which has troubled him for two weeks.

The Brooklyn Dodgers are short two first basemen. Regular Gil Hodges has been in a New York hospital with swollen feet and is due to go back for further observation and examination tomorrow. Rookie Wayne Belardi will be sidelined another four to five weeks following an operation for bone chips on his arm.

One of the most mysterious of the spring ailments has been Mickey Mantle's rash. The young Yankee outfielder, currently at his home in Oklahoma, hasn't played a full game in more than two weeks. Whenever he exercised the rash would appear. Boils formed under his arms. Finally, Manager Casey Stengel tried some psychology and sent Mantle home to be with his wife, who is expecting her first baby. Then the club became disturbed when Mantle failed to return to the club in Atlanta yesterday as expected.

Mantle, at his home, said he would be back tomorrow when the Yankees play in Nashville. He said his wife was getting along fine but he declined to talk about the rash.

Without Mantle the Yankees were beaten yesterday by Atlanta of the Southern Association, 4-3. Whitey Ford worked seven innings for the Yankees, struck out eight, but walked four, gave up seven hits including a home run, and wild pitched three times.

Two home runs by Dee Fondy helped the Cubs edge the Browns, 9-8, at San Antonio, Tex. Cincinnati beat the Senators, 6-2, at Charlotte with Clarence Podbielan going the route for the Reds. Second baseman Davey Williams singled five times in a row for the New York Giants, who whipped Cleveland for the third day in a row, this time 7-2 at Austin, Tex.

Dick Williams, subbing at first for the Dodgers, doubled off the wall in Nashville with two on base, to give Brooklyn a 3-1 decision over Milwaukee.

The Chicago White Sox whipped Dallas of the Texas League, 4-1; Philadelphia's Athletics defeated Montgomery of the South Atlantic League, 13-5; the Philadelphia Phillies whipped Birmingham of the Southern Association, 14-3; Pittsburgh turned back New Orleans of the Southern Association, 5-1; and the St. Louis Cardinals edged Houston of the Texas League, 3-2.

Detroit, the only major league team left in Florida, defeated the Cincinnati "B" team, 13-8. The Tigers head north tomorrow.

Cy Young's Eyes Too Bad To See Game

NEWCOMERSTOWN, O. (AP) — Baseball games are too much now for the eyes of one of the sport's greatest all-time pitchers — Cy Young.

At 86, the man whose 511 victories tops all performances in the majors says:

"I can't read anymore and if I go to a baseball game or anywhere else I have to have someone with me because my sight is so bad."

"I've been to a number of specialists, but all of them told me that they could not give me any glasses that would help me."

"I can still see enough to split wood, recognize people and walk around by myself, but things like reading, watching television or watching a ball game are beyond me now."

Young celebrated his 86th birthday anniversary March 29 at the farm home of John Benedum at nearby Peoli, where he has lived for nearly 20 years.

Because he can't read, Young says he has no way of sizing up the present day players and he won't make any predictions on pennant winners.

He does, however, deplore the present trend of minor league teams going out of existence, saying it isn't good for baseball.

Cy also thinks modern baseball is much too slow.

"They're always changing pitchers, and that slows up the game—makes it too draggy," he maintains.

Crack Akron Bowlers In Local Tourney

One of the top five-man bowling teams in the nation is scheduled to appear in the Salem Bowling Center's third annual team handicap tournament Saturday, April 18.

Dick Hoover and his Akron J-Dapters Spout quintet, currently in fifth place in the A.B.C. team standings, notified Alley Manager Don Krauss today that they again will enter the tournament.

The J-Dapters, winners of the Akron Slusser All-Star league, have a team average of 1,022, led by Hoover's 210. Others on the team include sponsor Gil Smith, 200, Art Pappa, 202, Elzie Diffenderfer, 203, and Joe Meszaros, 207.

Pappa is a former member of the famous Detroit Strohs team. In their recent visit to the A.B.C., the J-Dapters banged out a 3,102 series, even though Diffenderfer rolled a disastrous 493. Hoover smashed 722 in the five-man, then came back to pick up 1,212 more pins in the doubles and singles and now ranks in the first 10 all-events leaders.

Hoover's best night this year came 10 days ago when he rolled 792 in Akron, his lowest game being 259.

The Akron team will roll at 9:15 p.m. April 18.

Other outstanding bowlers and top-notch teams have entered the local handicap event.

A well-known kegler from Massillon, Toe David, will shoot on the 3:30 p.m. shift Sunday, April 12. David is averaging 190 this season, but is in the A.B.C. record book with two 800 series. He will roll with the Elum Music five.

Krauss is expecting a record turnout for the tournament. Entries have been coming in fast, he said.

St. Louis Group Seeks To Buy Browns

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A group of St. Louis business men are interested in buying the St. Louis Browns but they haven't talked it over with Bill Veeck yet.

J. Herndon Kirkland, head of a travel agency, was appointed chairman of the group at an organizational meeting Saturday. Willie E. Johnson, who was traveling secretary of the Browns for about 25 years, was named secretary.

Kirkland said neither Veeck, traveling with the club in Texas, nor any other officials of the club has been contacted about the sale. If a deal can be worked out, Kirkland said, stock will be sold to small investors.

In his second season as head coach of the University of Florida swimmers this year, Jack Ryan piloted his tankmen to the Southeastern Conference championship.

In 1952 Hank Sauer became the only player in the history of the Chicago Cubs to hit three home runs in each of two games in one season.

Rogovin May Open Against Indians

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Right-hander Saul Rogovin may replace lefty Billy Pierce as the April 14 opening day pitcher for the Chicago White Sox against the Cleveland Indians.

Reason: "Strictly psychological," according to Manager Paul Richards.

The Sox pilot explained it this way today:

"Last season Billy won two and lost five to Cleveland and won one and lost five to the Yankees. In contrast to his 3-10 record against the two leading teams, he was 12-2 against the rest of the league for an over-all 15-12 record.

"Of course he pitched against these two top clubs of the American League more than any other Sox hurler.

"Nevertheless, I recognize that exposing Pierce constantly to the Indians and the Yankees with unfortunate results may give him the idea that we're picking on him. It could develop into a mental complex."

Really A Change?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—International problems are like neighborhood problems, except they come in a larger size.

And foreign countries are like the neighbors who live on our own street—if they'd just stay consistent some kind of community peace is possible.

The change of executive leadership in the vast house of Russia reminds me of a change of neighbors in our town when I was a boy.

There was a little white house across the way owned by old Mr. Crabbe, the neighborhood grouch. He built a white picket fence around it, and the fence started right at the sidewalk.

Old Mr. Crabbe didn't like anybody and never asked anybody to like him. He visited no one. No one visited him. If the kids playing in the street hit a baseball into old Mr. Crabbe's front yard, they didn't get it back. He ran out and grabbed it.

But we learned how to deal with him. We moved the game up the street, stayed out of his yard, and there was no more trouble.

Finally old Mr. Crabbe died and went to heaven. He probably got him a new little house in the suburbs and whenever the cherubs up there knock a baseball into the yard I suppose he still runs out and grabs it, just as he did on earth. If life doesn't change people much, how can death?

A new neighbor named Mr. Fuddle moved into the little white house across the way. He had a wife, two children, and a one-eared bulldog.

Well, at first, Mr. Fuddle seemed the nicest fellow you ever saw. So did the whole family. Right friendly.

"Of course, you kids can play in the street in front of my house," he said. "If the ball lands in the yard, just climb over the fence and get it. I'd tear that fence down except that—well, fences have their places."

His one-eared bulldog played with our dogs, his two kids joined in the ball game, and Mr. Fuddle even came out and batted himself a few times. Then Mr. and Mrs. Fuddle fell to quarreling regularly. Never did find out what it was about. Some family difference over money, or how they wanted their kids raised. This not only upset all the Fuddles. It had the whole neighborhood in an uproar.

When Mr. and Mrs. Fuddle started hollering at each other, the one-eared bulldog would race out and start biting our dogs. If we knocked a ball in the front yard, Mr. Fuddle would come out, pick it up and throw it at us. And the two Fuddle kids no longer joined in the game. Their parents would not let them. All they were allowed to do was to try to ambush us one at a time and try to knock our front teeth out.

Well, the Fuddles began calling the cops to break up our game, and the other neighbors began calling the cops to separate the fighting Fuddles, and soon everybody was saying:

"My, wasn't it a lot more peaceful when old Mr. Crabbe lived out in that house? At least a soul knew where he stood. Nobody can figure out the Fuddles."

As I say, when I think of the change in Russia, I think of the old neighborhood. Old Mr. Stalin is, in many ways, like old Mr. Crabbe.

The new tenants of Soviet power—Malenkov and Co.—are making friendly noises. In fact, they are almost genial. But it remains to be seen whether they will give the world a longer stretch of peace than the Fuddles gave our community.

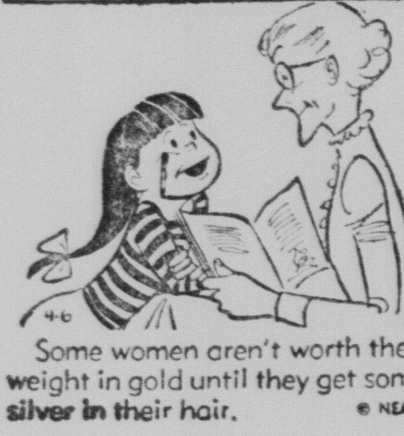

That's the trouble with new neighbors, little ones or big ones. Only time can prove the way they work, and how long the fences have to stay up.

Magnifying glass for industrial use has a light bulb built into its handle to illuminate the object being viewed. The light can be operated from batteries or from a 110-volt power source, depending upon the type of handle specified. The instrument's lens system magnifies five times.

Detectives Disarm, Kill Bandit

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A drugstore bandit disarmed and threatened to kill two detectives and but lost his own life when the officers made a swift recovery Sunday night.

Detective Cpl. Charles Klug and Detective Robert Walker, answering a holdup call, split up when they saw a man entering an alley near the store.

The man hid briefly, however, then stepped out, showing a pistol against Klug and taking the corporal's gun. With Klug as a shield, the man forced Walker to give up his weapon.

He ordered both officers to the ground, saying, "I'm going to kill both you lousy . . ." But the sound of a police car siren apparently changed his mind.

He told the detectives to start walking, then fired once at Walker, who slipped, escaping the bullet.

Klug promptly swung at the man's face, grabbed a gun and fired six times. Walker jumped forward, took the other gun the man held and fired twice.

Police identified the man as Charles L. Bay, 25, a former convict. They said he had $200 taken from the store cash register on him.

AVERTS POSSIBLE MISHAP CLEVELAND (AP)—When he saw a train hauling a flatcar loaded of lumber that had two broken holding straps, Patrolman George D. Brown remembered the train wreck at Conneaut. He got the word down the tracks. The train was stopped, and the straps were fixed. Heavy pipes falling from a freight train and knocking a track out of line were blamed for the Conneaut wreck that killed 21.
